BATCH VARIATION

Before installation, please check that all products are from the same production batch. Each pack has a label showing its unique batch code.

In the unlikely event you receive more than one batch in your delivery, contact your provider right away so it can be resolved. We're unable to replace products or cover costs once installation has started.

CUTTING & HANDLING

Porcelain's strength and low porosity make it challenging to cut without the correct tools. Cutting requires a water-fed diamond blade and should be carried out by experienced installers. Always wear gloves and use safe lifting techniques — tiles are heavy and edges can be sharp.

JOINTS

Use spacers (typically 3-5mm) to allow for movement and prevent edge stress. Fill joints with exterior grout; always follow manufacturer instructions to avoid staining.

SUITABILITY

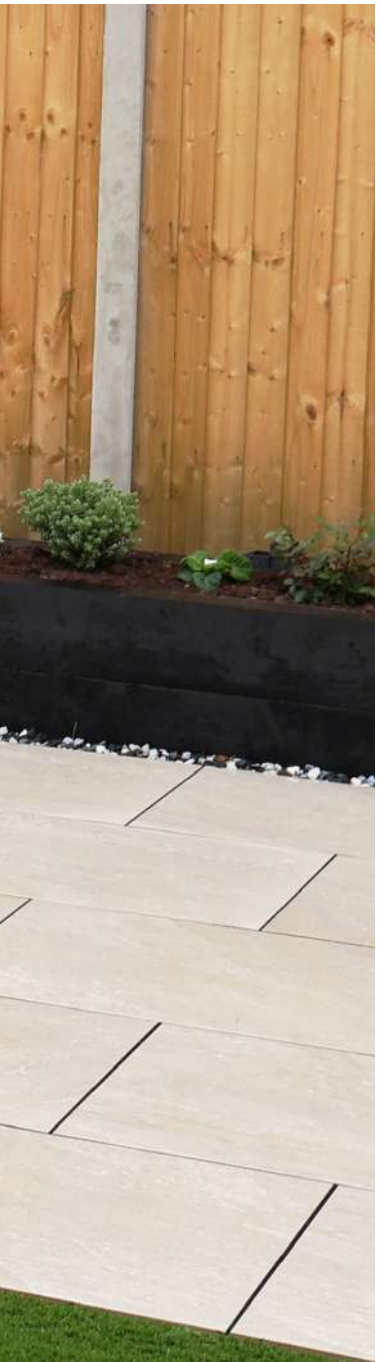

Porcelain paving comes in different thicknesses for different applications. 20mm tiles are designed for patios and other pedestrian areas. For driveways or spaces that take heavier loads, you'll need a product specifically rated for vehicular traffic. Always check the product specification before ordering to make sure it's suitable for your project.

UNDERSTANDING STONE

NATURAL VARIATION

Every piece of stone is unique. Differences in colour, veining and texture are part of its natural beauty. Images in this brochure are for guidance only, so we recommend viewing the product in person before purchase.

WEATHERING

Over time, natural weather conditions and everyday use will gradually change the appearance of your paving. Sunlight, rain, and exposure to the elements can cause subtle changes in colour or surface texture - these are part of the stone's natural character. Because our products are made from natural stone and aggregates, variations and oxidation may occur as the minerals within the stone react to their surroundings. These changes are completely normal and add to the unique look of your paving. Please note that GRS cannot accept responsibility for natural weathering or the effects of environmental materials over time.

SEALING

Most natural stone is porous, which means it can absorb water and be vulnerable to staining. To protect your paving and keep it looking its best, you may wish to consider sealing the stone both before installation (to prevent adhesive or grout staining) and after installation (for ongoing protection). Use a high-quality impregnating sealer suitable for natural stone and always follow the manufacturer's instructions. Sealing of natural stone may help to reduce staining and ease cleaning but will not prevent weathering or eliminate maintenance. Sealing may also cause appearance to change. The sealing performance depends on correct timing, preparation and on-going maintenance.

Always follow safe lifting practices and use appropriate PPE such as gloves, eye protection and sturdy footwear when handling or cutting paving products. Keep work areas clear and follow all relevant safety regulations.

LAYING PATTERNS

The way your paving is laid can completely change the look and feel of your space. Popular options include stack bond, stretcher bond, and herringbone, each offering a different style and level of complexity. Your installer can advise on the best pattern for your chosen product and area.
